Business Description

Selling a wide array of fresh breakfast and lunch sandwiches along with a range of daily hot specials, jacket potatoes and other snacks, the business has built up a very large customer base, extremely popular amongst employees of the businesses it visits on a daily basis.

All kitchen equipment and equipment with the van is included in the sale. The business has a strong online presence, as demonstrated by its website which lists its services, contact details and allows potential customers to peruse its menus. Its Facebook page also has numerous glowing reviews from customers. At this time, neither the catering side of the business, nor the website would be included in the sale.

The sign-written van is entirely fit for purpose and has been maintained to a high standard despite being used almost daily for 8 years. The van is complete with separate hot and cold sections for warm food and cold sandwiches

Opportunity

This is a fantastic opportunity to acquire a very profitable catering van which can fit around any new owner's lifestyle, enabling them to benefit from the current established contacts and the high influx of daily trade. Ideal for someone with a catering business looking to expand its trade with a catering van, or a first-time buyer looking for a profitable venture, the new owner could look to grow the business further.

Increasing hours would allow for more sales during the day, as would branching out to other places of work. Further advertising by directly approaching offices or other businesses would help to establish new sandwich rounds, which would grow turnover dramatically. The new owner could also look to introduce a private catering service if desired, to further drive revenue. The current owner would be willing to discuss a transitional period upon sale.
