Opportunity

ADSC Global would be ideal for a range of buyers, such as existing global companies/investors with little or no technology infrastructure who wish to fast track their development into this space. or new global companies/investors who recognise the value of such an asset and wish to add to their portfolio, either standalone or part of a wider group of assets.

This would also be a great opportunity for companies/investors outside of Europe who would feel it advantageous to obtain some courses which have a specific local European version such as the United Kingdom and/or the Republic of Ireland as this could be viewed as entry into this commercial space. A technical document would form part of this transaction outlining the multiple technical facets and how they interconnect and /or could be developed further. The business has an established / streamlined system which would facilitate a cost effect rolling out of further courses.
